The information in this booklet was compiled as a guide to available services and programs. It is intended to be used by Aging and Disability Resource Center of Racine County (ADRC) staff members when meeting or talking with consumers. For more detailed or current information, call the agency listed, or contact the ADRC.

The ADRC does not endorse, rate, comment, or evaluate resources, programs, or providers, and therefore cannot guarantee the quality of services provided. All information in this booklet is based upon the best information available at the time of publication, and the ADRC assumes no responsibility for changes, errors, or omissions.

Mission

To provide older adults and people with physical or intellectual/developmental disabilities the resources needed to live with dignity and security and achieve maximum independence and quality of life. The goal of the Aging and Disability Resource Center (ADRC) is to empower individuals to make informed choices and to streamline access to the right and appropriate services and supports.

Role of the ADRC

ADRCs provide a central source of reliable and objective information about a broad range of programs and services. They help people understand and evaluate the various options available to them. By enabling people to find resources in their communities and make informed decisions about long-term care, ADRCs help people conserve their personal resources, maintain self-sufficiency and delay or prevent the need for potentially expensive long-term care. ADRCs also serve as the single access point for publicly funded long-term care, including Family Care and IRIS.

ADRC services are available to older adults and people with disabilities regardless of income and regardless of the person's eligibility for publicly funded long-term care. ADRC services are also available to families, friends, caregivers, and others who work with or care about older people or people with disabilities. To promote use of their services, ADRCs should be physically accessible and be able to provide information and assistance in a private and confidential manner, provide a welcoming and inviting place where customers feel comfortable coming for services, and be available at a location preferred by and at a time convenient to individual customers.

Introduction

Older or disabled adults make easy choices each day like “what do I want for breakfast?” and “what should I wear today?” Some choices are not so easy like “where do I want to live?” That choice takes more time to think about.

Start by thinking about your comfort and safety. Can you stay where you are and be comfortable and safe? Think about your needs today. Who helps you meet your needs today? Think about your future needs. Who will help you meet your needs a year from now?

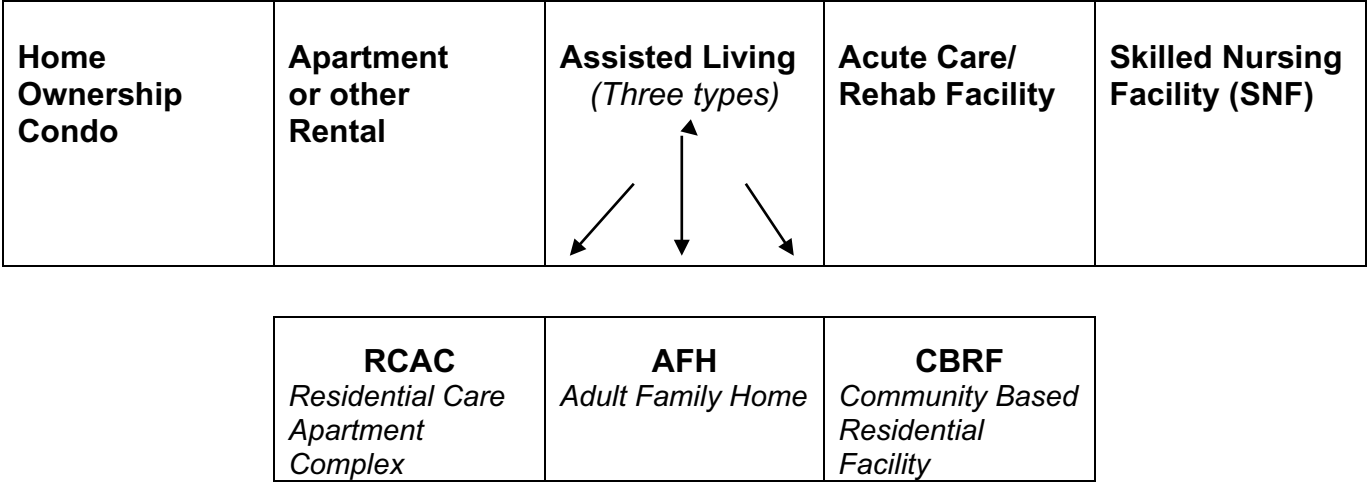

Now think about leaving your home and moving on. Think about doing new activities and making new friends. If you want to leave your home, you might begin by asking yourself some questions:

- What kind of life do I want?
- What do I want my home to be like?
- Do I want to stay near my family and friends?
- Do I want to stay near my doctor and drug store and hospital?
- Do I want to stay near my favorite shops, my senior center, and my congregation?
- How is my health?
- Do I need to live on the first floor of a new place?
- Do I need someone to make my meals, help me shower, and give me my pills?
- Do I need a helper in my home each day? How much does that cost? Do I have enough money?
- Can the government help me pay for a helper in my home?
- How much money can I afford to pay for rent?
- Can the government help me pay my rent?
- Is there government help for me right now that I don't know about?
- Should I ask my family and friends to help me answer these questions?
- If I don't understand legal things, should I speak with my lawyer?

Whatever you decide, please remember this:

The best choice is the one that makes sure all your needs are met and also protects your legal rights.

Continuum of Housing Options

Housing Definitions

Subsidized Rental Housing

Sponsored by the US Dept of Housing and Urban development (HUD) Subsidized Rental housing is limited to low-income families and individuals. The Racine County Housing Authority (HA) determines your eligibility based on: 1) annual gross income; 2) whether you qualify as elderly, a person with a disability, or as a family; and 3) U.S. citizenship or eligible immigration status. If you are eligible, the HA will check your references to make sure you and your family will be good tenants. HA's will deny admission to any applicant whose habits and practices may be expected to have a detrimental effect on other tenants or on the project's environment. Generally, rent will be 30% of gross income. You can also apply directly through an apartment community you are interested in.

Senior Apartments

Senior apartments are multifamily residential properties for persons age 55 years or older. Senior apartments do not have central dining facilities and generally do not provide meals to residents, but many offer community rooms, social activities, and other amenities. Most offer both Conventional or "Market Rate" apartments and apartments that are subsidized by WHEDA, Rural Development, or HUD.

Independent Living Options for Older Adults

Independent living communities are age-restricted multifamily properties with central dining facilities that provide residents as part of their monthly fee with access to meals and other services like; housekeeping, linen service, transportation, and social/recreational activities.

Residential Care Apartment Complexes (RCAC)

A place where five or more adults reside that consists of independent apartments, each of which has an individual lockable entrance and exit, a kitchen, including a stove, individual bathroom, sleeping and living areas, and that provides, to a person who resides in the place, not more than 28 hours per week of services that are supportive, personal and nursing services. RCACs are regulated under Chapter HFS 89, Wis.Admin.Code. RCACs must be either registered or certified. Registered RCACs serve only private pay tenants, while certified RCACs may serve tenants who are eligible for public funding.

Adult Family Homes (AFH)

A place where three or four adults, who are not related to the licensee, reside and receive care, treatment or services that are above the level of room and board, but include no more than seven hours of nursing care per week per resident. AFHs are regulated under Chapter HFS 88, Wis.Admin.Code. AFHs are characterized in two ways: 1) those AFHs where the owner/licensee lives on the premises and provides resident care; and 2) AFHs that are owned by an entity that provides shift staff.

Community Based Residential Care Facilities (CBRF)

A place where five or more adults, who are not related to the operator or administrator, and do not require care above intermediate level nursing care, reside, and receive care, treatment or services that are above the level of room and board, but include no more than three hours of nursing care per week per resident. CBRFs are regulated under Chapter HFS 83, Wis. Admin. Code. There are three sizes of CBRFs based upon the number of residents: small (5-8), medium (9-20) and large (21 or more). They also differ by class, which is determined by the resident's ability to move about (ambulation), to follow directions (mental capacity), and to act for self-preservation under emergency conditions.

Housing Counseling

Programs that provide comprehensive assistance for people who want to rent or purchase housing including information and guidance about buying and rental costs; how to select affordable housing that meets individual needs; and how to provide for insurance, maintenance and other requirements related to acquiring and paying for housing.

Pre-Admission Consultation (PAC)

Pre-admission consultation is a service provided by Aging and Disability Resource Centers (ADRCs) to individuals who are in the process of considering or making a decision about the need to move out of his or her home in order to receive the help they need to remain independent and safe. Sometimes people are unaware that there are services and supports that can be provided right in their own home, often making a move unnecessary. Those who want to move into a nursing home or assisted living facility (such as a community based residential facility or residential care apartment complex), can find it difficult to know which facility would be the best for them or a loved one.

Through pre-admission consultation provided by the ADRC, people have a conversation with a knowledgeable professional about the options available to him or her and the costs of different options. ADRC staff can help individuals consider how long personal funds will last and discuss what may happen if money runs out so people can best plan for their future. The conversation can also include information about the sources of government funding that may be available and how people can be eligible. The pre-admission consultation will provide individuals with an opportunity to discuss important factors to consider when choosing among long term care programs, settings and benefits.

Respite Care

Respite care is the provision of short-term, temporary relief to those who are caring for family members who might otherwise require permanent placement in a facility outside the home. It can come in several forms including In-home respite (a caregiver comes in), short stays in assisted living facilities, nursing homes emergency respite, sitter-companion services, or adult day care.

Contact individual assisted living facilities or nursing homes about short term respite stays. Many are willing to accommodate this if they have space available. To discuss respite options, contact the ADRC at 262-833-8777.

Community Based Residential Facilities (CBRF)

Community Based Residential Care Facilities (CBRF)

A place where five or more adults, who are not related to the operator or administrator, and do not require care above intermediate level nursing care, reside, and receive care, treatment or services that are above the level of room and board, but include no more than three hours of nursing care per week per resident. CBRFs are regulated under Chapter HFS 83, Wis. Admin. Code. There are three sizes of CBRFs based upon the number of residents: small (5-8), medium (9-20) and large (21 or more). They also differ by class, which is determined by the resident's ability to move about (ambulation), to follow directions (mental capacity), and to act for self-preservation under emergency conditions.

CBRF Classifications:

- Class A Ambulatory (AA). A Class A Ambulatory CBRF may serve only residents who are ambulatory and are mentally and physically capable of responding to an electronic fire alarm and exiting the facility without any help or verbal or physical prompting.
- Class A Semiambulatory (AS). A Class A Semiambulatory CBRF may serve only residents who are ambulatory or semiambulatory and are mentally and physically capable of responding to an electronic fire alarm and exiting the facility without any help or verbal or physical prompting.
- Class A Nonambulatory (ANA). A Class A Nonambulatory CBRF may serve residents who are ambulatory, semiambulatory or nonambulatory, but only if they are mentally and physically capable of responding to an electronic fire alarm and exiting the facility without any help or verbal or physical prompting.
- Class C Ambulatory (CA). A Class C Ambulatory CBRF may serve only residents who are ambulatory, but one or more of whom are not mentally or physically capable of responding to an electronic fire alarm and exiting the facility without any help or verbal or physical prompting.
- Class C Semiambulatory (CS). A Class C Semiambulatory CBRF may serve only residents who are ambulatory or semiambulatory, but one or more of whom are not physically or mentally capable of responding to an electronic fire alarm and exiting the facility without help or verbal or physical prompting.
- Class C Nonambulatory (CNA). A Class C Nonambulatory CBRF may serve residents who are ambulatory, semiambulatory or nonambulatory, but one or more of whom are not physically or mentally capable of responding to an electronic fire alarm and exiting the facility without help or verbal or physical prompting.

The most current licensed listings for CBRF's can be found on the website of the Wisconsin Department of Health Services <http://dhs.wisconsin.gov/> under Assisted Living Directories. I. INTRODUCTION

At some point in your life, you may be faced with making a decision about an assisted living facility for yourself, a family member, or a friend.

There are over 1,500 licensed community based residential care facilities (CBRFs), 1,497 adult family homes (AFHs), and 300 residential care apartment complexes (RCACs) in Wisconsin. Facilities may be owned by individuals, corporations, religious groups, and county governments. They may be private or public, for-profit or not-for-profit, but all must meet applicable licensing standards.

The Division of Quality Assurance is responsible for licensing, certifying, or registering all assisted living facilities in Wisconsin and has designed this publication as a tool to help you learn more about assisted living facilities, how to choose them, and how to use them.

II. ASSISTED LIVING FACILITY Q & A

WHAT IS AN ASSISTED LIVING FACILITY?

“Assisted Living Facility” is a term that encompasses three types of facilities licensed, certified, or registered by the Department of Health Services. All assisted living facilities combine housing with services to help people remain as independent as possible. A brief definition of each facility type follows:

Community Based Residential Facility (CBRF)

A CBRF is a place where

- five or more adults, not related to the operator or administrator,
- do not require care above intermediate level nursing care,
- reside and receive care, treatment, or services above the level of room and board, but that
- provides not more than three hours of nursing care per week per resident.

CBRFs are regulated under Chapter DHS 83, Wis. Admin. Code.

There are three sizes of CBRFs based upon the number of residents; small (5-8), medium (9-20), and large (21 or more). They also differ by class, which is determined by the resident's ability to move about (ambulation), to follow directions (mental capacity), and to act for self-preservation under emergency conditions.

Adult Family Home (AFH)

An AFH is a place where

- three or four adults, not related to the licensee,
- reside and receive care, treatment, or services above the level of room and board, but that
- provides not more than seven hours of nursing care per week per resident.

AFHs are regulated under Chapter DHS 88, Wis. Admin. Code.

AFHs are characterized in two ways: (1) those AFHs where the owner/licensee lives on the premises and provides resident care; and (2) AFHs that are owned by an entity that provides shift staff.

Residential Care Apartment Complex (RCAC)

A RCAC is a place where

- five or more adults
- reside in independent apartments, each of which has an individual lockable entrance and exit, a kitchen which includes a stove, and individual bathroom, sleeping, and living areas, but that
- provides not more than 28 hours of supportive, personal, and nursing services per week per resident.

RCACs are regulated under Chapter DHS 89, Wis. Admin. Code.

RCACs must be either registered or certified. Registered RCACs serve only private pay tenants, while certified RCACs may serve tenants who are eligible for public funding.

WHO SHOULD CONSIDER AN ASSISTED LIVING FACILITY?

The need for some type of lifestyle change is usually first indicated when a person has difficulty in one or more of the following areas:

- Self-care,
- Diminishing health, physical, or mental abilities,
- Lack of community support services, or
- Family not available to provide care or supervision.

If your loved one is not ready to move into an assisted living facility, you may wish to consider seeking adult day care services. Adult day services offer programs designed to meet the needs of functionally or cognitively impaired adults. These structured, comprehensive programs provide a variety of health, social, and other related support services in a protected setting during the day. Adult day centers generally operate five days a week. Services provided in an adult day care setting may include personal care, meals, medication administration, and activities designed to meet physical, social, and leisure time needs.

In Wisconsin, adult day care centers are not licensed, but may be certified. If the center serves one or more participants who receive public funding, certification by the Department of Health Services is required. Certification standards for adult day care centers can be found at http://dhs.wisconsin.gov/rl_dsl/AdultDayCare/ADCregs.htm

Adult day care services may be provided in family homes, free-standing centers, and multi-use facilities such as churches, schools, and senior centers.

WHAT GROUPS OF PEOPLE ARE SERVED BY ASSISTED LIVING FACILITIES?

It is suggested that an assisted living facility provide services to a specialized group of people in order to meet their unique needs. The people served by assisted living facilities include, but are not limited to, the following:

- The frail elderly and elderly persons with dementia,
- Developmentally disabled,
- Persons with a controlled mental or emotional disorder,
- Persons recovering from chemical dependency,

- Persons with physical disabilities,
- Persons with traumatic brain injury,
- Persons with AIDS, and/or
- Pregnant women needing counseling.

HOW DO RESIDENTS PAY FOR THEIR CARE AND SERVICES?

Medicare does not cover services in an assisted living facility. Payments may come from a variety of sources, including, but not limited to, the following:

- Personal resources including savings accounts, pensions, insurance, veterans care benefits, or Social Security and related benefits such as SSI and SSI-E.
- State and federal funding for home and community based long term care may be available for eligible participants through state programs, such as “The Community Options Program (COP)”, the Medicaid Home and Community Based Waiver program, and Family Care. Funding for these programs is limited, and not all facilities are eligible. For specific policies, contact your county Human Services or Social Services Department for more information prior to moving into an assisted living facility.
- Local community aids/county levy funding may be available from county Departments of Social Services, Human Services, or County Boards to persons who qualify.

Assisted living facilities will want to know how you will pay for your care. They will ask you to sign an admission agreement specifying the payment arrangement.

WHAT SERVICES CAN YOU EXPECT FROM AN ASSISTED LIVING FACILITY?

Assisted living facilities are required to provide or arrange these five basic services to all residents, if needed:

- Health monitoring,
- Assistance with medications,
- Information and referral services,
- Leisure time services, and
- Personal care services such as help with dressing, eating, bathing, grooming, toileting, and mobility.

Additional services may be provided in an assisted living facility to assist residents with their personal needs and goals, such as transitioning to more independent living, counseling, transportation, money management, etc. Services may vary significantly. It is important to evaluate the facility, not only based upon current needs, but also future needs.

WHAT WRITTEN DOCUMENTATION SHOULD YOU ASK TO SEE?

1. Program Statement (CBRF and AFH)
2. Admission Agreement
3. Individual Service Plan
4. Resident Rights list
5. Complaint Procedure
6. Risk Agreement (RCAC only)
