Apps and other Websites that help

Look for Apps and websites that help you live your best life – find those that work for you. Apps are available to help you track your medications, to meditate, to provide you with positive statements, and other types of help based on your needs. Many are free or low cost.

Further Ideas

Most churches have their own counseling programs; those services often range from someone to talk to all the way up to grief counseling after a loss and help with drug and alcohol abuse issues. Even if you are not a member of the church, they may offer counseling or be able to refer you to someone who does.

Check with your HR department to see if your company has an EAP, or Employee Assistance Program. EAP hotlines often provide support to employees looking for help with their mental health, someone to talk to, drug and alcohol issues, or even nutrition and physical health concerns.

Try an Online Counseling or Listening Service. You can find free and paid services online but be aware that this may not be at the professional level you may be in need of, and you may need to pay for some of the services offered.
